Breakfast Conferences in White House in Line With Coolidge Efforts

SETS HARMONY PROGRAM

Smooth-working Legislative Machinery Necessary in Short Session

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1926 by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington—President Coolidge has set out on a definite program of harmony within the Republican party. The conferences which he has been calling for breakfast at the White House are in line with an effort on the part of Mr. Coolidge to develop a united front for the election in 1928 when the party will be on trial again.

The shortness of the present session of congress makes even more imperative the necessity of a smooth-working legislative machinery. The summoning of the chairman of all important committees is expected to bring about a personal relation between those chairmen and the White House, enabling them to consult the executive whenever the occasion warrants. While Mr. Coolidge does not wish ever to be regarded as an executive who "drives" congress, he is not unmindful of the opportunity he has to influence the course of his party leaders.

NO PERSONAL DISPLAY

Mr. Coolidge shrinks from personal display such as might be involved in a reception on the floor of the house if he read his message in person, and prefers to do his conferring at the White House whenever it is convenient for the members.

On such visits as other presidents have made to the capitol, the first few partook of a certain novelty but later they became to a certain extent interruptions, for a president could not always determine in advance the hour for his visit and frequently important matters were absorbed in committee meetings or hearings which they could not conveniently leave. The breakfast conference idea has been evolved as a compromise. In the early hours of the day members of congress are free from engagements as a rule. During the lunch hour their presence is frequently needed on the floors of congress and they like to be handy for roll calls.

IMPROVE MORALE

The Republican conferences—for usually only Republicans are invited—are calculated to improve the morale of the party and to inform the president on the prospects for legislation. The president feels that he must do for counsel and guidance on the Republican leaders and he wants them to know it. His method of working with congress is somewhat different from that of his predecessors but the objective is the same—close accord with the leaders, namely, the chairmen of committees.

Mr. Coolidge's own leadership is on trial in the short session of congress. Between now and the time congress meets again in December, 1927, political will be drawn for the 1928 political conventions. Members of congress have much to do with the selection of delegates for a presidential nominating convention in fact, in many instances, they choose and dominate the delegations. Whatever personal relations Mr. Coolidge may establish will to a certain extent prevent the development of an opposition to him.

DAWES IS AWARDED NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

Oslo, Norway—(AP)—The Nobel peace prize for 1925 has been awarded to Charles G. Dawes, vice president of the United States and Sir Austen Chamberlain, British secretary of foreign affairs. This announcement was made Friday at a meeting of Nobel institute by Professor Stang. It was also announced that the 1926 peace prize had been awarded to Aristide Briand, French minister of foreign affairs, and to Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Germany's foreign minister.

New York—(AP)—Plans to erect a sports arena costing between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 and rivaling Madison Square Garden as a scene of all around athletic activity, were announced Friday by Humber J. ## DOHENY LOANED MEXICO $10,000,000

CHURCH BOARD IS AGAINST AL SMITH BECAUSE HE'S WET

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church opposes Governor Al. Smith of New York for his wetness, not for his religion, its secretary, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, said Friday in his annual report. He also took occasion to commend President Coolidge's stand on prohibition enforcement in his messages to congress.

The Methodist church is not seeking temporal power in Washington, said Dr. Wilson's report nor is it "lobbying," but is exercising through the board its "full right of petition and organizing public influence." The defeat of Senator Wadsworth of New York, was described as "one of the most significant victories prohibition forces have yet won."

WETS MUSTER ONLY 12 VOTES IN FUND FIGHT

Succeed in Eliminating Under-cover Clause from Treasury Bill

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—House wets mustered only 12 votes Friday in their attack on the $11,900,000 appropriation for the prohibition unit carried in the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill, but they succeeded in eliminating a section of the measure under which Lincoln C. Andrews, dry chief, would have been authorized to spend $500,000 next year for under-cover agents without detailed accounting.

One hundred and forty members voted for the expenditure of nearly twelve million dollars, but on the question of the measure under which Andrews, dry chief, would have been authorized to spend $500,000 next year for under-cover agents without detailed accounting, the wets mustered only 12 votes.

One hundred and forty members voted for the expenditure of nearly twelve million dollars, but on the question of the measure under which Andrews, dry chief, would have been authorized to spend $500,000 next year for under-cover agents without detailed accounting, the wets mustered only 12 votes.

By a vote of 140 to 12 the house today rejected a move to eliminate the $11,900,000 carried in the postoffice-treasury bill for the prohibition unit.

A bill to regulate the manufacture and sale of butter submitted to protect makers of butter and consumers from fraudulent imitations was introduced in the house Friday by Representative Tinscher, Republican, Kansas.

POISON GAS QUESTION

In the senate, foreign affairs had claimed major attention in the form of a proposal for ratification of the treaty to outlaw use of poison gas in warfare. At the same time, however, considerable interest was being shown in efforts to prevent the seating of Senators-Elect Vane of Pennsylvania, and Smith of Illinois.

Reopening of its investigation of the Pennsylvania, Illinois, Oregon and Arizona senatorial primaries was agreed upon Friday by the senate campaign funds committee. Chairman Reed said the committee wanted to "complete the record."

ADMITTS OTHER ADVANCE WAS MADE TO FALL

Loan to Obregon Government Was in Form of Advance Taxes, Claim

BULLETIN
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur of the navy department, was called to the witness stand Friday in the Fall-Doheny oil trial.

He was summoned by the defense, which sought to show that a "war scare" hovered over the Pacific when Edward L. Doheny contracted to build a fuel storage base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Under cross-examination in his trial Friday for criminal conspiracy, Edward L. Doheny said his celebrated $100,000 loan to Albert B. Fall was not all the money he had advanced to his friend and co-defendant since Fall entered the cabinet.

Asked what other loans he had made, he said he loaned Fall $5,000 just before he came to Washington for the trial. He then said he had had no financial transactions with Fall, other than the $100,000 loan, while Fall was in the cabinet.

OBJECT TO QUESTION

The prosecution asked if he had made any other loans since Fall resigned, but the defense objected and the court took the question under advisement.

Doheny also disclosed he had loaned the Obregon government of Mexico $10,000,000 in the form of advance taxes on Pan-American Mexican properties. Fall, acting as agent for Pan-American interests in Mexico in arranging the $10,000,000 loan, after he left the cabinet, said the witness.

He could not fix the date, but he recalled "I saved the situation in Mexico much to the disgust of many Americans."

Doheny said, however, that Fall was not in his employment, but that his advice merely had been sought in connection with Obregon loan. The money was used for rehabilitation of the Mexican army's anti-revolutionary maneuvers.

ONE KILLED, SEVEN INJURED IN BLAST

Workman in Indiana Railroad Plant Blown 400 Feet by Explosion

Hammond, Ind.—(AP)—An explosion in the mixing plant of the Central Railway Signal company here Friday killed one employee, injured seven more, shocked a score and did damage estimated at $100,000.

Henry Evans, a mixer of explosives for the manufacturing of railway torpedoes, was killed when he was blown 400 feet by the blast which wrecked the plant.

The explosion, levelled the one story brick building where is occurred, damaged other buildings of the plant and wrecked buildings and broke windows a mile away.

Among the injured was H. O. Bemis, the plant superintendent. The others injured were also in the mixing plant, a one-story brick building which was reduced to debris. Five other buildings of the company were damaged.

BREWSTER IS SPEAKER; COULD NOT AT DINNER

New York—(AP)—The political differences of Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, and Senator Arthur R. Gould apparently have been carried to the Maine society of New York. Senator Gould was absent from the society's dinner Thursday night and officers said he refused to attend because the governor was a speaker.

The political hostility between the governor and Senator Gould developed during the recent Maine special election when the governor supported charges that Senator Gould had exceeded the primary campaign expenditure allowed by law.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE BY STORMS IN CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles—(AP)—Storms, little known in southern California, brought trouble to the Imperial valley Friday after sweeping the coast area Wednesday night and Thursday and moving inland. Reports of crop damage were mounting hourly while washouts, flooded irrigation ditches and impassable roads paralyzed motor traffic and slowed train schedules. The lettuce crop, barley pastures and unpicked cotton were the most seriously damaged by the rains which drenched the entire valley.

225 Families Need Help Of City's Good Fellows

In spite of the fact that this city has no slum, or so-called poor districts, there are between 200 and 225 families here that are in dire need of help, according to records of Appleton Welfare council which is the clearing house for the four cooperating charities which share in the fund provided each Christmas by Appleton's Good Fellows. The number of families requiring help is slightly larger this year than in the past because of the unusually severe winter and as a result more money will be required. Members of the cooperating charities say they will not be able to carry on this year with the usual $2,500 that makes up their budget and that at least $3,000 will be required.

This isn't a large sum for Appleton's Good Fellows to provide. There are at least 3,400 persons here who can and should have their names on the membership roll of the Good Fellows club and if all of them give there will be plenty of money to take care of those people who from circumstances beyond their control are unable to take care of themselves.

While a certain amount of business must be used in giving aid to the needy, charity cannot be made a cold-blooded business proposition and common sense rather than hard and fast rules must govern the work of the charitable organizations. There is a family in Appleton consisting of two people in most desperate need but who cannot receive help from the city because the people own their own home—such as it is. It is merely a shell, but the taxes and other expenses are a great deal less than the cost of renting a similar abode, and charitable organizations believe the family should retain the home rather than sell it.

ORDER STUDY OF WISCONSIN TAX PROBLEM

Mayor Rule Will Appoint Committee to Draft Legislative Program

After listening to discussions on local and state tax problems for several hours Thursday afternoon, delegates to the state-wide tax meeting held at Conway hotel adopted a resolution directing appointment of a committee of six members to prepare a tax program for presentation to the next state legislature.

Mayor Albert C. Rule, as chairman of the meeting, was authorized to make the appointments and instructed to announce the committee within a week.

The committee will consist of two members of the League of Wisconsin Manufacturers' association, two members of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, and two members representing chambers of commerce throughout the state.

The resolution, introduced by Seymour Gleason, Appleton resident, "Resolved That the chair, appoint a committee of six to carry on and complete the work undertaken at this meeting. This committee to consist of two members representing the Manufacturers' association; two members representing the league of Wisconsin Municipalities; and two members representing the Commercial Associations of the state."

"This committee to meet at some place and time designated by the chairman for the purpose of unifying the tax programs of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, Wisconsin Manufacturers' association and other programs or suggestions that may come before the committee."

This unified tax program after receiving the approval of the Manufacturers' association, League of Wisconsin Municipalities, and commercial associations to be presented to the state legislature at its next session as representing the thought and attitude of city administrations and manufacturers, trade and commercial associations of the state, and a copy be sent to every mayor in the state and secretary of commercial associations.

The resolution was unanimously adopted by the 100 or more persons present.

Representing the opinion of the organizations, the tax program to be prepared is expected to receive more than ordinary consideration by the legislature. Views of the first two organizations, presented by Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee and F. E. Clausen of Horton, met the approval of the entire gathering, composed of representatives of commercial and trade organizations and officials of Badger municipalities. All were in accord.

NURSES SMOKED; FOUR FIRED FROM HOSPITAL

Detroit—(AP)—Cigarette smoking by two senior nurses of the Henry Ford hospital and their subsequent discharge has been followed by the ousting of W. L. Graham of the hospital, and Miss Katherine G. Kilmick, superintendent of nurses.

Official confirmation was lacking and Herman Goodstein, counsel for the hospital, said that any settlement has been made.

"I know nothing of such an offer," he said. "I know nothing of any proposal to settle the suit out of court. I deny that any monetary offer of settlement had been made to either Count Salm or myself."

Nevertheless, New York newspapers said they had authoritative information that when the case is called again on Jan. 17, announcement would be made that a settlement had been reached out of court.

Rumor Cash Settlement In Count Salm's Suit

New York—(AP)—Reports of a prospective cash settlement, ranging from a half to a million dollars, were in circulation Friday after the sudden adjournment of the separation suit of Count Ludwig Salm-Hoegstraten against his wife, the former Millicent Rogers, Standard Oil heiress.

Official confirmation was lacking and Herman Goodstein, counsel for the hospital, said that any settlement has been made.

"I know nothing of such an offer," he said. "I know nothing of any proposal to settle the suit out of court. I deny that any monetary offer of settlement had been made to either Count Salm or myself."

Nevertheless, New York newspapers said they had authoritative information that when the case is called again on Jan. 17, announcement would be made that a settlement had been reached out of court.

28 LIVES TOLL OF EXPLOSION IN COAL MINE

Shaft Is Sealed Friday Following Second Blast in Same Area

Princeton—(AP)—Another explosion occurred in the Francisco Coal mine No. 2 Friday morning but as no rescue workers were in it at the time no further casualties resulted. The mine was ordered sealed immediately, leaving within its workings the three men, unaccounted for and the bodies of two others which were located early Friday.

The death toll of Thursday's explosion now stands at 28, including the 5 bodies sealed in the burning mine. Twenty-one bodies were recovered on Thursday and two of the injured taken from the shaft died Friday in a hospital.

RESCUERS DRIVEN BACK

The pitchy door of smoldering mine drove the rescuers from the shaft Thursday night after they had accounted for 56 of the 71 men who were caught by the explosion as they went to work Thursday. Pausing only for a few gulps of coffee the blunder-eyed crew members gathered about a chair of the underground chambers and spent three hours checking and re-checking to determine which of the entries had been explored. Then, intent on reaching remote chambers unpenetrated since the explosion, they descended again into the shaft.

Their first duty was to locate and determine the extent of the fire suspected to exist in the portion of the mine to which the five missing men might have repaired after the explosion. Their skepticism that their comrades had survived the terrific explosion and the 12 hours later was scarcely concealed.

WILL INVITE U. S. TO PEACE PARLEY

League of Nations to Ask Washington to Send Representatives to Geneva

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The intention of the league of nations to seek American collaboration in two international conferences next year has aroused interest but no comment in Washington. Until the invitations are received and details of the conference plans are known, no attempt will be made to formulate American policy with respect to them.

One of the conferences to consider world economic problems, is to be convened at Geneva, May 4, and the other, to consider supervision of the private manufacture of arms, is to be called next fall. If the general disarmament conference, already authorized, goes over until 1928, The United States also will be asked to send representatives to sit on the commission which will draft a convention for consideration at the arms manufacture conference.

Invitations to take part in these meetings also will be sent to Russia, among other non-members of the league.

JEW AND CHRISTIANS TO EXCHANGE SPEAKERS

Committees in 160 communities already have been created to promote the movement, which is an extension of a development whereby professors have been exchanged between Christian and Jewish theological seminaries.

Crandon—(AP)—With more than 100 persons indicted on various charges, including larceny, conspiracy, liquor law violation and arson, the Forest-co grand jury is expected to adjourn Friday night with the intention of reopening again in March next year. The jury declared a recess Friday while sheriff's officers are serving warrants on some 35 indicted at Thursday's session.

FIND MURDERED MAN IN 'LITTLE ITALY'

The body was piled clothing with bullet-holes corresponding to the wound over the man's heart and police found no one who had heard the shots, leading them to the theory that the killing must have taken place in an automobile.

The body was later identified by relatives as that of Joe Albergo, an Italian laborer. They had no explanation for the killing.

Prairie Du Rocher—(AP)—A special meeting of the Crawford-co board was scheduled to convene at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon to consider offering a $5,000 reward for Erdman Olson, 18-year-old youth charged with responsibility for the murder of his 22-year-old sweetheart, Clara Dorothy Olson. Rewards of $300 have been posted but it was felt by citizens of "Rock-apoo valley, aroused by the slaying of the girl whose body was found last Thursday, that a larger amount should be offered.

YOUTH IN GEORGIA

Columbus, Ga.—(AP)—A youth who in an unguarded moment said he was from Wisconsin, laughed at the "way they dance in the south," and let it be known that he was "in trouble" and wished to avoid the law, is being held in Bacon-co, suspected of being Erdman Olson wanted as the slayer of his 22-year-old sweetheart.

Then, at a country dance, they attended together Pittman laughed at the way they danced in the south, and described dances in Wisconsin. A few days later the youth was in town and at the approach of the policemen Pittman is said to have said:

"LET'S MOVE"

"Let's move on; they're watching me too closely."

At the time Thomann was unaware that Erdman Olson was "wanted for murder. He returned here Nov. 20 and after reading newspaper accounts of the crime saw a photograph of Olson published which he said tallied with his recollection of Pittman, and he wired Sheriff Stearns of Crawford-co. The arrest of Pittman followed.

On Road to Boneyard

"I have just finished a treatment of your wonderful remedy and can say it has done wonders for me already. For the past five years I have been unable to eat any but the lightest food and that but sparingly, as any food caused me to bloat with gas. I was reduced to a skeleton of ninety pounds, and was on the road to the boneyard. A friend in Birmingham sent me a bottle of MAYR'S which I took, and I am sure it will entirely cure me of my trouble, judging from what it brought from me and the way I feel." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. All druggists. adv.

DEALERS DIVIDE ON WHETHER THERE IS POULTRY SUPPLY

Most Butchers Declare Turkeys Are Scarce and Prices Will Be High

Christmas turkeys will be scarce and the prices will be high, according to Appleton butchers, while geese, although not plentiful will remain at about present prices and chickens and ducks, said to be plentiful, will advance about slightly in price. Appleton butchers and farmers disagree as to the number of holiday fowls for the market.

"There is a plentiful supply of poultry of all kinds," said Charles Hopfensperger Meat Market, "in spite of what the farmers say. I think the market will be over supplied."

"Turkeys are very scarce," said L. Bonini of Bonini's Meat Market, "while chickens, geese and ducks are fairly plentiful. Turkey prices will probably reach 65 cents before Christmas, while other poultry prices may advance slightly."

There is a scarcity of all kinds of poultry, according to E. C. Schabo of the Schabo and Company market. Especially will the scarcity of turkeys be felt and the price will soar.

Farmers in the county claim that the supply of poultry is very scarce and that because of the big Thanksgiving consumption the situation is complicated.

The Fox River Valley Poultry Dealers association met Thursday night in Trades and Labor hall to discuss the poultry situation. The meeting was scheduled for Wednesday but was postponed because no hall was available.

COURT CALENDAR FILLED UNTIL END OF JANUARY

An ever increasing number of cases promise to crowd the municipal court calendar to such an extent that before 1926 is ended the schedule will run well into the new year.

A week ago it was reported by Municipal Judge Theodore Berg that his calendar was full up to Jan. 18, 1927. Additional cases filed show a gain of 9 calendar days in 7 actual days, or up to Jan. 27.

Many of the matters set for hearing are of a quasi-civil nature but these require as much court time and often more than more important civil or criminal cases, the Judge pointed out.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION SENDS CHECK TO CITY

A $2,748.90 check for maintenance of connecting streets was received on Tuesday by Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, from the Wisconsin Highway commission. The check represents expenditures incurred by the city in maintaining streets forming connections with state trunk highways, according to the letter received by Mr. Bachman. The letter was signed by K. G. Kurtenacker, chief accountant of the commission.

CLOAKROOM ROBBERS ACTIVE IN MARINETTE

School cloakroom robberies have become so numerous in Marinette, Wis., that Police Chief Frank M. Dalton, of that city, has issued notices to police officers of the state, that he would like assistance in bringing the marauders to trial. In a specific instance Chief Dalton has requested that state police be on the alert to apprehend the chief of a valuable fur coat, stolen, he says, from a Marinette school.

DEFINES "USEFUL" FARM EMPLOYMENT

County Authorities Investigating Several Cases of Truancy from School

"Tossing a quart or so of corn a day to a group of hungry hens does not constitute 'useful' employment on a farm for a boy or girl between the ages of 14 and 16 years," County Superintendent A. G. Meating declared Wednesday in pointing out that there are only two excuses accepted as valid under the state law for absence from school during those years.

If a child of 14 has completed the work of the eighth grade or is employed at "useful" and productive farm labor the state statutes can not compel him or her to attend school, Mr. Meating explained.

The law, however, only applies to the rural school districts and not those sections within the jurisdiction of vocational schools where the minimum age is 18 years.

Several cases of truancy, as interpreted under the state law, are under investigation by county authorities. The burden of proof that their children are actually working—not merely avoiding school—will be put on rural parents involved, it was indicated.

APPLETON MARKETS
WELL STOCKED WITH
FRESH VEGETABLES
"Summer Eats" from West and South Offered at Attractive Prices.

Fresh vegetables and fruit, traveling many miles from the warmer states in the west and south, are displayed on Appleton markets this week. The quality of the products and the attractive prices are unusual for this time of the year, dealers say.

Although fresh eggs have reached top prices, the prices are expected to drop soon. Reports from Chicago state that the egg market there has slumped in a few days from 58 to 46 cents, a decline of 12 cents a dozen. Local prices now are 70 cents per dozen for strictly fresh eggs, 60 cents a dozen for fresh eggs and from 40 to 50 cents per dozen for storage eggs.

Butter prices also have reached the peak, selling at between 55 and 60 cents per pound here. This commodity also slumped on the Chicago market this week, dropping from 54 1/2 cents to 51 1/2 cents a pound.

Potatoes prices have remained about stationary for the last two weeks, spuds selling at from 40 to 55 cents a peck and from $1.40 to $2 per bushel. Sweet potatoes sell at from 5 to 10 cents a pound. Celery sells at from 15 to 20 cents a pound and head lettuce at from 10 to 15 cents and leaf lettuce at 10 cents a bunch.

Squash retails at 5 cents a pound and carrots at 5 cents a pound. Cauliflower sells at from 25 to 35 cents a peck and red cabbage at from 5 to 8 cents and white cabbage at from 3 to 5 cents a pound. Green peas retail at 30 cents a pound and wax beans at 35 cents a pound. Green onions and radishes sell at 10 cents a bunch and Spanish onions retail at 2 for 15 cents.

Spinach sells at 25 cents a pound and peppers at from 3 to 12 cents a peck. Rutabagas and turnips sell at 5 cents a pound and parsley at 10 cents a bunch. Parsnips sell at 10 cents a pound and artichokes at 2 for 25 cents.

Cranberries sell at from 18 to 25 cents a pound. Apples of all varieties are being sold at from 5 to 15 cents a pound. Grapefruit retails at from 60 cents to $1.50 per dozen. Oranges retail at from 25 to 60 cents a dozen and bananas at from 2 to 3 pounds for 25 cents. Lemons sell at about 40 cents a dozen and grapes at from 10 to 20 cents a pound.

APPLETON AWARDED LEGION HONORS

Largest City to Beat Last Year's American Legion Membership Record
Appleton is the largest city in Wisconsin to receive a distinguished service certificate from the state department of the American Legion this year. The certificate is given to posts which secure more 1927 members in November than it had on membership rolls when the books were closed in 1926. Not another city over 15,000 population won the honor, records show.

Last year only six cities of the state were awarded certificates and this year thirteen made the grade. Of the six cities in 1926, four were in the Eighth district of which Marshall Graff of Appleton is commander. Mr. Graff formerly resided in Wausau.

This year the Eighth district again received four of the thirteen certificates and the Ninth district received three. Ninth district certificates went to Appleton, Kimberly and Luxemburg. In the Eighth district, New London, Marion, Unity and Neopit received the awards. Two of the posts received special recognition. Unity has the only post in the state to win the award three years in a row. It probably also is the only one in the entire country, Mr. Graff said.

WISCONSIN TAX REVISION

The interim committee appointed by the last legislature to investigate taxation announces that it will submit two reports, one on taxation and the other on state administration. It will recommend that if a reduction in taxes is decided upon by the legislature it shall begin by reducing the corporation income tax from six to four and one-half per cent. It will oppose restoration of the personal property offset. It also proposes to make the state income tax payable concurrently with payment of federal income tax. The recommendation to reduce the corporation income tax evidently is an acceptance by the committee of the proposition that it will result in the greatest good not only to business and industry but to the consumer, because of the fact that practically all corporation taxes are passed on to the ultimate purchaser. Both the Democrats and the Republicans have agreed on this policy nationally, and it seems certain that when the next revision of the federal income tax is made there will be a reduction in the corporation rate. It would seem, therefore, that the legislature should act favorably upon this recommendation.

The opposition of the committee to restoration of the personal property offset is not unexpected. In a general way the committee represents the administration which removed the offset and its defense of this act is logical. Nevertheless, removal of the offset has put a sudden and heavy burden on all business and industry, and has been especially severe on the smaller or average merchants and manufacturers. Undoubtedly a strong move will be made in the legislature to have the offset restored. If Governor-elect Zimmerman does not ask for an abolishment of all personal property taxes, in accordance with his primary campaign views, he may be expected to support a proposal to restore the offset.

Automobile taxation will also be an issue at the coming session. Senator Caldwell has already announced that he will introduce a bill reducing the license fee to a flat $5.00 on all automobiles and the lighter trucks, and to compensate for the deficit he would raise gas tax. The position the interim committee takes on this will probably be important as well as that of the governor, but we think there is general demand for relief from the heavy taxation of automobiles, which from any and all points of view is excessive.

Then there is the further question of a state property tax levy. There can be no doubt that the legislation adopted at the last session which permitted the state to finance itself without a property tax is wrong in principle and detrimental in practice. It has meant no relief whatever to the general taxpayer, and can mean none. On the contrary, it is certain to increase taxes, particularly to the property owner. This has already been demonstrated by increased levies made by counties and cities which much more than equalled the remission of the state tax. Furthermore, it is wrong because it diverts public interest from state expenditures, and leaves a way open to loose administration of public funds and extravagance. It also is wrong because it deprives local taxing units of and appropriates to the state sources of revenue that properly belong to cities and counties. The bulk of taxation is local, therefore it is economy to the taxpayer to have the largest sources of taxation open to local levy. All counties and cities would be better off if the state were compelled to make a small property levy and forego some of the revenues which are now received from other sources, including a smaller share in the income tax distribution. We shall not have a satisfactory solution of the tax problem in this state until these matters are adjusted equitably and soundly. The interim committee will recommend that steps be taken to consolidate numerous boards, commissions, etc., and to eliminate useless ones. This is a reform indispensable to a restoration of state expenditures to a reasonable basis, and to bring about needed economies in state administrations. A proposal of this kind, while rejected by the last legislature, received strong public approval, and if it has the backing of Governor-elect Zimmerman it ought to get somewhere at the approaching session. With this reform and the appointment of a budget director, or a finance commission with powers to appoint a budget director, we will have made a big start toward reorganization of state government on business lines, and in the interest of economy and greater competence.

THE LIMIT OF LEGAL LICENSE

From this distance it would appear that the government of the United States has made a strong case against Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, and Edward L. Doheny, who are on trial at Washington for the corrupt exploitation of the naval oil reserve lands. With a battery of nine lawyers defending Messrs. Fall and Doheny it is to be expected that some rather choice methods of defense will be uncovered. But we were not prepared for the statement of one of the defendants' attorneys in opening the defense before the jury that Doheny is a "patriot" and that Fall is to be likened to Abraham Lincoln!

Every technical effort of these astute and resourceful lawyers has failed to mislead the judges of the federal courts. It remains to be seen what the jury will do, because, ultimately, in the hands of the jurors lies the fate of the defendants. But when "patriots" take oil leases with a potential profit of one hundred million dollars and when "Abraham Lincolns" take bribes, the terms used will have become words of shame and reproach instead of what they are. If the jurors will do their duty as the judges have in bringing these men to trial, public justice will be vindicated.

And right in the midst of this trial comes the decision of the supreme court of the United States that Fall and another alleged conspirator, Sinclair, must stand trial on another indictment charging a similar conspiracy in reference to the Teapot Dome oil reserves. This case involves the passage of $232,000 in Liberty bonds which the government claims it has traced to Fall's account in western banks shortly after Sinclair received his lease. This, of course, will make Sinclair also a "patriot" and step Fall up from Abraham Lincoln to General Washington!

AT CHRISTMAS TIME
About this time of year I think I'd like to be a boy,
And know the glad illusions of the Christmas days of old.
I'd like to trade my wisdom for the long lost thrill of joy,
Before the embers of desire had turned so gray and cold.
But now my little girl and boy are dancing with delight,
And now their eyes are open-wide as once mine used to be,
And now they sit at supper-time and prattle every night
Of treasures they shall wake to find upon their Christmas tree.
Now should a fairy come and say: "A boy I'll make of you,
I'll take away the weight of years and all your dreams restore.
I'll give you back your childhood as you've wanted me to do."
I'm certain I should rise and show that fairy to the door.
For as I think it over, and I watch their eyes glow,
I wouldn't be a boy again, if such a chance I had.
I swear I have a richer joy than any child can know.
When Christmas Day is coming I would rather be a dad.

PARENTS, SAVE YOUR CHILDREN
Even with the advantage of special training or education it is a difficult thing for a parent to instruct a child in sex. Without that advantage parents are indeed confronted with a formidable problem. In the past it has been quite customary, if not entirely fair for parents to evade this responsibility by the simple expedient of not getting involved. But so far reaching is the conspiracy of silence that children who are left to the tender mercies of others for such instruction simply do not get instruction, or if they do get any it is too likely to be evil and dangerous.

The other day I offered here a referendum for children from 12 to 50 years of age, in order to obtain some data of actual conditions at the present time. The vote on this referendum has begun to come in and it seems likely to prove much larger than I expected. Children evidently appreciate the opportunity to express their views about sex instruction. Now I want to hear from the parents, and I should be glad to include in this referendum the votes of good people who are fathering or mothering somebody's children, perhaps the elder brothers or sisters in families bereft of father or mother, perhaps some good scouts who nobly fill the role of uncle, or maiden aunts who are mothers in every respect save actuality.

Referendum on the Twentieth Amendment
Of course the twentieth amendment has not been read, but it will provide for teaching children God's sacred truth instead of the myths we have offered them in the name of education. Guilty or not guilty, you parents can help to remedy a deplorable situation by expressing in this referendum your experiences and views. Fill in the answers and clip this item and mail it to me in care of this newspaper. I will tabulate the result and publish it later. No votes can be counted unless properly acknowledged by signature—of course no correspondent's identity is ever divulged. If you wish to ask a question, use the blank space and do not forget to inclose a stamped envelope addressed to yourself if you wish a personal answer.

AN IDEA THAT FAILED TO JELL
Examples are numerous of novelists and short story writers and poets and dramatists whose conception of a theme is much better than their execution. It is probably true that most writers feel, after they are far enough from their work so as to regard it impersonally, that their execution fell far short of their intention. But in the case of many writers the average reader cannot perceive the short age or even recognize that there is any, because he cannot from the nature of the case know how distant the star was to which the writer tried to hitch his wagon. But there are other cases in which even the reader can see that there was failure in the author to come up to his intentions.
That seems to me the case with a new English novel by a new English novelist — "High Silver" by Anthony Richardson. On the jacket the book is advertised as "a sincere and nicely balanced portrayal of changing tendencies and ideals in present-day England." The readers are further told that it was sponsored by "The Forum" and that it takes its place beside "Soundings," "Chimes," and "The Little French Girl."
IDEA DIDN'T TELL
But to me the most important fact about the book is not stated on the jacket or any of the advertising. It is the fact that it is the book with a good idea that failed to jell. In other words, the novelist had an excellent novel thesis but when you lay down the volume after reading it you feel that he has failed to put it across. A mere idea, no matter how excellent, does not make a novel. An idea is only a framework; the test consists in transmuting it into fictional flesh and blood.
Anthony Richardson's idea is that more kindness without common sense does most of the harm in the world. One of his characters expresses it like this: "It's you kind people who make all the trouble in the world." And the story shows that with "kindness" he does not mean the deep pity and kindness that Victor Hugo for instance describes in "Les Miserables". Instead it is kindness that is synonymous with sentimentality — kindness that is more emotion without intellect. The young hero in the book rushes in and rescues a girl from a drunken mother. Out of kindness he marries her, without bringing his intellect into play. His kindness makes both himself and the girl intolerably miserable in the end. And all through the book there are such acts of emotional kindness that lead to disaster.
It is an excellent idea and a very true one. Moreover it runs refreshingly counter to a vast mass of highly sentimentalized fiction in both England and America. Such writers as A. S. M. Hutchinson, in "If Winter Comes" and the books that followed, have preached the duty of kindness until it is sickening. They have committed themselves to the philosophy that kindness is good for its own sake, that it is the kind impulse that counts and that justifies the action. In their books the kind act which was at the same time the act of a fool has been visited at first with what seemed to be disaster but in the end it turned

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

Slippery Eels
BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n
"As slippery as an eel" is a very common saying. Another which would be just as apt to would be "As puzzling as an eel," for this little serpent-like fish has kept people guessing.
Aristotle is quoted as saying that eels spring from the "entrails of the sea." Possibly around no other living things have there been more foolish fables.
Once people believed that a horse hair would turn into an eel, and many other stories just as ridiculous have been repeated and believed concerning this fish. But the real truth is more marvelous than the most fanciful tale ever woven about it.
Sometimes in the middle west a farmer will see an eel wriggling through the dewy grass or in a muddy pool, and he wonders how it ever got there so far inland. The writer has known a small eel to come up with a gush of water when pumping water from a driven well in the south. How did it get there?
The puzzle of the eel was solved not so long ago. For a long time it had not been known that they spawned in the deep sea, and finally their spawning beds were found off Bermuda. It is believed that the eel, like the salmon, finishes the cycle of its life after spawning once. Its life work is then over.
The tiny eel starts life as a transparent minute thing, and grows to three inches in length during the first two months of its life. Then it changes to the regular eel shape and takes on eel characteristics.
Soon after this it starts for fresh water. Its life history is a reversal of the life history of the salmon, which works its way to the sea to enjoy life and when ready to spawn works its way back to the old home in fresh water, over torrents and rapids.
Eels work their way up stream, although not able to surmount as ever falls as the salmon. They sometimes wriggle their way across land to reach inland pools which accounts for the middle west farmer seeing them in grass and mud.
The only possible solution of the eel being pumped up in Florida, is that the driven well must have reached a subterranean stream in which the eel was working its way inland.

The Question Box

Q. Do the colors in Chinese rugs have any particular significance? R. E. W. A. The Chinese have six symbolic colors: red signifies fire and the South; black, water and the North; blue or green, wood and the East; white, metal or mist and the West; Yellow, Earth and the Center.

Q. Which is the largest and which the smallest national cemetery? A. R. A. The annual report of Quartermaster General Cheatham says that Arlington is the largest both in area and number of interred. The smallest is at Ball's Bluff, near Leesburg, Va., about one-half acre in extent and containing the bodies of one known and twenty-five unknown dead.
Q. Who first started to teach art by correspondence? J. A. C. A. The first correspondence course in art was a feature of the old chautauqua course and was taught by Frank Fowler in 1880-1888.
Q. What newspapers have the largest circulation in the world? J. W. W. A. The "Sells" newspaper press says that Le Temps, Paris, and the Petit Parisien, Paris, have the largest circulation of any newspapers of the world with an approximate circulation of 1,400,000 each. The London Daily Mail comes next with approximately 1,000,000 daily circulation.
Q. What States have no net debt? W. J. Nebraska is the only State which does not have a net debt.
Q. How much fresh air should a person breathe a minute? J. E. R. A. An adult should breathe in ten barrels of fresh air a minute.
Q. How did the term "gob" originate? R. D. W. A. The appellation "gob" is of Chinese derivation, from the Chinese word meaning "sailor." The word came into use when the fleet was in the Far East.
Q. When was the last negro legislator elected to Congress from the State of North Carolina? P. T. T. A. The last negro to be elected to the United States Congress was George H. White of North Carolina. He served in the 55th and 56th Congresses from March 1887 to 1901.

NO DEATHS THUS FAR IN SPITE OF EPIDEMICS HERE

Parents' Carelessness Blamed in Widespread Contagion in City

Although there are more than 100 Appleton homes quarantined because of contagious diseases, and there are that many more homes where quarantine signs have been removed in the past month, not one death has resulted according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer.

On Monday 15 new cases of measles were reported, which make a total of about 60 homes under quarantine for this disease at this time. In addition there are two homes quarantined for scarlet fever, about twenty-five for whooping cough and five for chicken pox. There is no diphtheria, typhoid fever or small pox in the city now.

Mr. Sanders said the type of measles which visited the city last year was more of a rash. This year, however, the disease is more serious and most of the children who contract it become quite ill. It is this type of measles which is dangerous and likely to develop serious complications.

Contagion is almost inevitable among the children after the opening of school. The reason for the large number of measles at this time, Mr. Sanders indicated, was that parents were too lax in observing the quarantine laws.

"When a home is quarantined it means that the child with the sickness must be kept in the house," Mr. Sand-

13 BADGER CITIES HAVE MORE THAN 20 COPPERS

Madison—(AP)—An army of 1,731 regular police is maintained by 101 Wisconsin cities.

Statistics on personnel and salaries of the police departments in these cities are contained in the bureau of municipal information's most recent report. It shows that Milwaukee has more than half the city police in the 101 reporting cities, keeping a force of 933 men and women to preserve the peace and safety of its citizens. Other cities which have a police force of more than 20 are:

Madison, 66; Superior, 62; Racine, 56; Kenosha, 54; LaCrosse, 40; Oshkosh, 37; Green Bay and Sheboygan, 35; Wausau and West Allis, 27; Eau Claire, 23; Fond du Lac, 21; and Janesville, 20.

Milwaukee pays its chief of police $6,000. The highest paid elsewhere is $3,300. The average salary in cities of more than 10,000 is $2,650; in cities of 5,000 to 10,000, $1,644; and in cities of less than 5,000, $1,200.

Bernard Riebe, physical education instructor at the Wilson Junior high school, was in Milwaukee Wednesday to assist at a wedding.

ers said. Many parents allow the children to mingle with other boys and girls after school hours and this causes spread of the disease. Other parents do not call a physician when their child is sick and measles are often spread in this manner.

"Call the family physician at once in case of sickness of any kind, and if it is a contagious disease, observe the rules of quarantine closely. This is the only way to stop the present epidemic," Mr. Sanders declared.

History Of Red Cross In Wilson School Publication

Junior Study, the special social science paper prepared and published by 16 students of Wilson, McKinley and Roosevelt junior high schools for the purpose of demonstrating the value of the Red Cross organization, is being distributed this week to members of the association, parents, business houses and others who would be interested in the work of the Red Cross. Students of the schools are distributing the papers.

An eight page paper was prepared according to the original plan. A supplement was added because of additional material and in order to insert the names of the 1927 members of the association. The printing was done in the Wilson school print shop by the students.

The paper includes a history and the officers of the Red Cross as well as statistics about its work.

Editors were Jessie Euboeck, Dorothy De Eyl, Frances Brewer, Earl Dehart, Alma Dumke, Winifred Ek, William Foote, Evelyn Grant, Alva Kraus, Robert Mortimer, Florence Martin, John Roemer, Lila Rachtke, Mae Schroeder, Robert Rydell, Elmyra Schulze, William Scott and Herbert Zindars. # INVENTOR BUILDS CAR DESIGNED TO MAKE PARKING EASY

New Fangled Machine Has Four Extra Wheels to Move It Sideways

Thousands of miles of more parking space will be available for motorists by means of an invention by V. F. Williams of Baltimore, which allows autos to move sideways into a space no longer than the car's length.

An automobile to be known as the New York Six, which will incorporate this invention is now under construction and is scheduled to make its appearance at the New York automobile show.

The invention consists of four small wheels, built into the car at right angles with the main service wheels. These four wheels are "once ed beneath the car when not in use. They can be lowered by the power of the engine to move the car to the right or left.

The four wheel used for parking purposes are eight inches in diameter with solid rubber tires. The wheels are mounted on heavy lifting pillars with strong lateral bracing.

The system operates as a hydraulic jack, which lifts the car from the street three inches in a second. When the car is above the street, the auto engine power is used to drive the wheels. There is no danger of accident as the main gear of the car must be in neutral before the lift can operate.

Using this invention, the motorist can pick a parking space the length

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

The next day Bob Hathaway met Faith, by appointment, in a little tea shop. Over the sandwiches and tea, Bob finished his account of the adventures of the day before, or rather the finale which Cherry and Faith had not been allowed to witness.

"Of course I rushed out to that West Tenth Street address, and found that Lola Gonzales had shipped! We expected that, you know. But I found who had called for a Western Union messenger, and learned that she had sent Alexander Cluny the carbons of the letters with which she had hectored poor Cherry. So back to his office I tied myself and found my suspicions correct. He made no difficulty about turning over to me every scrap of paper connected with the whole messy business—Pete's reports, which Lola had typed out most beautifully, detailing every move that Cherry had made for weeks—ever since she announced her engagement to Cherry. Faith, in fact—and the carbons of Lola's letters to Cherry. Here's the lot." He passed a thick manila envelope across the painted little table to Faith, who took it gingerly, as if it were unclean.

"What shall I do with it?" Faith asked.

"Give it to Cherry, and tell her to burn it. It may make her feel better to look it over and find out just how lucky she is that it hasn't done any more harm than it has already. But if it were I, I should burn it without reading it. I looked the stuff over and I believe it's all there, unless Alexander has copies locked away in his safe, to use as a club somehow in the future. Of course I had to take his word for it that he was turning it all over to me. Now—let's order everything else on the menu and see if we can collect a square meal. I'd like to see you take hold of this place for just a week, darling. I believe you're the best cook in the world."

"You're preposterous," Faith laughed. "I'm not an artistic cook at all, cooking for a family of six doesn't make for artistry, you know, especially when there's no money for trimmings. Madame Denise wants me to become her assistant and later her partner as a modiste and you want me to run a tea shop but I have other plans." She laughed softly, with a note of pure happiness which made him reach impulsively for her hands.

"I don't want you to run a tea shop except for two, and there'll be a cook to help you. Oh, Faith, I don't see how we're going to manage if we have got to meet like this! I've got to hold you in my arms at least once a day—"

Those last words of his were still ringing in her heart when she let herself into the living room of the little Myrtle Street house.

"Oh, I'm sorry! I didn't know you had a caller, Cherry," Faith cried to cross the living room as hastily and unobtrusively as possible, but her footling glance at the newly decorated old wicker chair had registered a portrait of a tall and stately woman, of middle age successfully held at bay, a woman richly dressed, but strangely ill at ease.

"Just a minute, darling!" Cherry's most honeyed voice stopped her sister at the dining room door. "I'm so glad you came home in time to meet Mrs. Albright. This is my dear sister Faith."

Mrs. Albright. Faith this is Mrs. Cluny's daughter, Mrs. Albright."

"I'm very glad to know you, Mrs. Albright," Faith said composedly, her voice betraying no hint of the agitation which fluttered in her heart.

"I have been explained to—Miss Lane," Mrs. Albright's cold, grey eyes and the cold mechanical even voice matched her cold, pale smile upon her chastely rouged thin lips. "that I should have called much sooner, to welcome her into the family, but I have been so extremely busy preparing to go abroad. Mr. Albright and I are taking my daughter, Marjole, to Switzerland, to place her in school. I am sorry we shall not be here for the wedding." Any reference to the forthcoming marriage puckered her lips as if they were tasting the acid of an unripe persimmon.

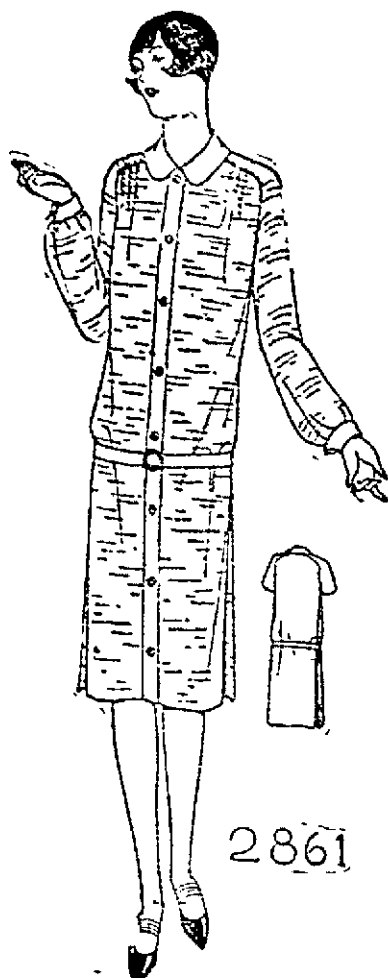

"Isn't it a shame, Faith?" Cherry demanded, with polite regret, as she tweaked rather self-consciously at the hem of her short skirt which did not cover her knees. "I was just telling Mrs. Albright that I had hoped Muriel would be one of my bridesmaids. Oh, you're not leaving so soon, Mrs. Albright? I know Mother will be very much disappointed at not meeting you. Thanks so much for calling. I shall be so glad when Muriel finishes school. I know we will have a lot in common."

When the imposing Mrs. Albright had taken her departure, solicitously sped on her way by the impudently gay and cordial Cherry, Faith walked in the living room for the flood of Cherry's confidence and exultations. But it was a blazine-eyed Cherry who returned to face her.

"The old car!" she cried. "I'd like to scorch her! Whisking Muriel away so fast! I can't make her my bridesmaid, and so they can get out of coming to my wedding! I'll make 'em all eat dirt yet!"

TOMORROW: Mr. Cluny makes a remarkable will in Cherry's favor.

said, "I'll tell you what. Let's rap upon the gate."

This plan was very shortly tried and then the gates swung open wide. Of course the Tinymites thought they'd see somebody standing near. But not a soul came into sight, so walking in seemed quite all right. Said Scouty, "If we all behave, we'll surely have no fear."

They entered Santa Land, and then the monstrous gates swung shut again. "Well, here we are," laughed Coppy, "what's the next thing we're to do?" "Oh, walk around," someone replied, "until we've seen what's here inside. I'd like to see if all the tales of Santa Claus are true."

So off they sauntered, down a lane. Their trip, they found, was not in vain, for not so far ahead of them was Santa Claus himself. They all were thrilled as thrilled could be. Ol' Santa held upon his knee a doll that he had taken down from off the toyshop shelf.

They stopped to watch the gay old man. Now, just imagine, if you can the joy of seeing Santa Claus, who scared away all sorrow. And thus we leave each Tinymite, still hiding out of Santa's sight. But, cheer up, all you little kids. They'll talk to him tomorrow.

LEERING MUSIC OF TODAY

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

WE are indebted to Sigmond Spaeth in a recent magazine for recalling the days of old lang syne in an article called "The Songs You Forgot to Remember."

He tells us that American morals, manners, tastes and absurdities are actually written into our popular songs. Although our sons and daughters are moved to hysterical tears over ballads of the past such as "Only Me," "My Mother Was a Lady," and "After the Ball," it appears that after all, the songs of a quarter of a century ago must be given credit for containing more natural enthusiasm than present day lyrics, which are full of "leering farce and snickering suggestions."

Mr. Spaeth says that "our foolish ancestors may have been naive, but on the whole their taste in music was not to be despised."

Music can express any emotion and arouse any emotion. Most of the popular music of today is sensual. Yet we allow our children to buy record after record of cheap sensual music, while all the while we are making them practice, one, two or three weary hours a day at their exercises on the piano in order to teach them good music.

If the mature and sophisticated want popular music and jazz that is for them to decide. I have no quarrel with every one making his own decision when it comes to personal taste in music. But how, as a nation, are we ever to improve musically if we are going to feed our children on emotionally cheap music?

A child's musical education should be first to recognize good music, next to love good music, third to play good music. He should be allowed to listen to excellent records, and they cost no more than the cheap John stu of the music malls. Children have never had an opportunity like they have now, with phonograph and radio, of learning what beautiful music is. But our music seems to be like our politics. The more we have the worse we choose to make it.

With our tom-toms and jazz, you might move us off to the South Seas without the Southern Cross dropping out of the sky. Musically, it is about where we belong.

DRESS WINDOWS IN LIGHT COLORS FOR WINTER

Cretonne and chintz draperies are no longer confined to summer use. A visit to the shops these days will convince you that women are selecting these colorful fabrics for their winter hangings.

This is not surprising when one views the extensive displays of these cotton fabrics in the most charming color combinations. The dark colors are especially stressed and if properly treated as to color schemes, these make very attractive hangings. During the summer the white grounds were popular in cretonnes and chintzes but women are now selecting those with cream, tan or gray backgrounds. This choice is partly due to the fact that the tinted background gives warmer effects and then, too, it does not soil so easily. However, the woman who knows selects her hangings to match or harmonize with the walls.

With our liking for colonial effects in our homes it is but natural that the small patterns in conventional designs predominate in both chintzes and cretonnes, but the handsome, large figured cretonnes have their place and the counters are full of rich patterns.

Women who want something different are tuning to the modernistic patterns.

Many of the patterns come under the head of modern but they are not at all bizarre. An attractive cretonne has a bright design of roses in this new art on a background of dark green.

Detroit's new traffic ordinance besides forbidding "one-armed driving" and front seat crowding, also prohibits any one to drive with another person sitting in his lap.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BREAKFAST—Stewed dried peaches, cereal, thin cream, French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Scalloped onions and tomatoes, graham bread, apple tapioca pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—New England boiled dinner, celery, Indian pudding, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

A New England boiled dinner uses all the vegetables in season in its composition. Parsnips, carrots, turnips, cabbage, potatoes, onions, and beans lend their flavor and nourishment to this time-honored American dish. Corned beef or salt pork are the meats chosen for the dinner. It's well worth while to use a heavier piece of corned beef than will be needed for one meal, for corned beef hash or the meat served sliced cold is delicious. The beef absorbs some of the flavors of the vegetables cooked with it and the result is a delicately seasoned, delightfully tender, cold sliced meat.

SCALLOPED ONIONS AND TOMATOES

Six or eight medium-sized onions, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 cups sugar, 12 tomatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 3 eggs, 4 tablespoons buttered crumbs.

Peel and slice onions, melt butter in sauce pan, add sliced onions and cook five minutes. Add tomatoes, salt, sugar and pepper and simmer for forty-five minutes. Sprinkle a well-buttered baking dish with coarse crumbs, making a thin, even coating. Turn in onion and tomato mixture, sprinkle with grated cheese, put in the oven long enough to melt the cheese. Make four slight depressions in top of dish, slide an egg carefully into each hollow, sprinkle with buttered crumbs and return to the oven for eight minutes to cook the eggs and brown the crumbs. Serve from the baking dish.

Wage Earner Best Saver,
Say New London Bankers

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Who are the money saving people of New London? Are they the salaried men and women? Are they industrial heads or professional men?

This question, when recently asked local bankers, received without exception almost the same answer. It is not the salaried man nor is it the official man or the man or woman of professional means. The men and women who as a class save with a cut and dried regularity, who bank a certain portion of their earnings and live on the rest, is the factory hand, the wage earner.

D. B. Egan of the Farmers' State bank when consulted as to whether the boy and girl of such parents is a safe prospect for future savings days, stated without hesitation that saving habits are formed in the home.

"It happens so frequently," affirmed Mr. Egan "that the habit of saving is most firmly inculcated in the mind of the growing lad or girl by the parents themselves, not through teaching alone but by example. When

Hortonville Boy Now Is Musician Of Great Note

New London—Few people of this city who recently heard Louis Cornell on the air when, as pianist, he accompanied Marie Sundelius, the Swedish-American prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, New York, know that he is the same lad who was born in Hortonville, the son of the then Rev. and Mrs. Warren D. Cornell. Rev. Cornell was at the time pastor of the Methodist church in Hortonville, and his sister, an aunt of Louis Cornell, still resides in that village. She is Mrs. James McVeckla.

Louis Cornell, now a noted figure in musical circles, is a member of the New England conservatory faculty at Boston, Mass., and a veteran of the World War during which time he was decorated with the Italian cross, showed vestiges of unusual musical talent when very young. At the age of 17 he was organist at St. Paul cathedral, Fond du Lac. He came from a musical family and was unable to receive musical training but not daunted, he taught himself and was later able to continue his studies in Chicago. While there he became organist at the Israhel temple and studied under Middle-schulte.

He then went to Georgia to take charge of choir work in the pastorate of his older brother, Gerald, an Episcopal rector. It was here that his superior talent caught the attention of a wealthy member of the parish. She was Mark Hanna's daughter, and it was through her interest that the young musician was sent to Europe where he studied under Carreno and Ganz. While there he played successfully in recitals as solo artist with orchestras on the continent.

Not only has the life of the famous musician contained details of picturesque interest but his entire family is one in which runs a strong strain of artistic temperament. His father, a musician of ability, was a composer as well. Many hymns sung in churches the world over were composed by Warren Cornell. His hymn, "Peace Wonderful Peace" has been transcribed into seven languages.

Mrs. McMeekin relates incident which occurred when both Louis and Gerald Cornell were with the expeditionary forces in France. The brothers, stationed with different battalions, had arranged a meeting in Paris. While in that city they were walking past a little French cathedral from which issued the tones of a familiar song. Their interest quickened and they hastened within to kneel in the dimness while listening to the French singer's song. It was their father's own composition, "Peace Wonderful Peace," which kept them enthralled until its completion.

Gerald Cornell, once rector of a fashionable pastorate in New York city, yielded to an innate urge which has become the ruling element of his life. By discarding the robes of the clergy he has become a recognized figure on the stage. He created a name for himself when he played roles of importance among which was that of John Hays, the secretary of Abraham Lincoln, in the play of that name which played for several years in New York.

The Rev. L. G. Moland of this city confirmed a class at Hilda and Galesburg on Sunday, Dec. 5. Following are the names of those confirmed: Knights, Silas Peterson, Alvin Peters, Carlston Abel, Selma Nelson, Irene Newman, Herbert Nelson, Alvin Abel, Irene Nelson all of Galesburg; and Arthur Cole, Orville Hanson, Rosalia Rasmussen, Willard Cole and Irma Wilbur of Hilda.

The Rotary club held its regular weekly luncheon at the Ward hotel Monday noon.

The Ladies of the M. E. Guild held their regular meeting in the M. E. Church parlors Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Sanford and Mrs. Tilson were the hostesses.

The Women's club met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Perkins at 130 N. Main-st. on Monday afternoon. The Catholic Women's club will hold a business meeting and the election of officers will take place at the Knights of Columbus hall on Thursday afternoon.

Gust Prenzlow of Mattoon, was a business caller in this city on Tuesday.

The 4-S club met at the home of Miss Sarah Laabs on Monday evening. The evening was spent in sewing. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Francis Moser on Monday evening, Dec. 12.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church will meet in the church parlors next Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. M. B. Lendved and Mrs. James Smiley are the hostesses.

O. C. Eberhardt is now located in his building formerly occupied by the M. B. Lendved Hardware company, which recently moved to the building

STAGE And SCREEN

WIDE DIVERGENCE OF OPINION ON "THE GREAT GATSBY"

One well known critic on the staff of a large New York daily, says of "The Great Gatsby" which will be the screen fare at Fischers Appleton Theatre starting next Monday: "The Great Gatsby" is every bit as good as "Beau Geste" and better than three other shows now on Broadway being presented as road-shows. May Time of "The Chicago Tribune" says "The Great Gatsby" is about as good as pictures ever get.

Then there are other critics who seem to have missed the underlying motive behind the actions and reactions of its characters, and think it meaningless.

"The Great Gatsby" with a cast headed by Warner Baxter, Lois Wilson, Neil Hamilton, Hale Hamilton, George Nash, and Georgia Hale, also William Powell will be the feature photoplay at Fischers Appleton Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. On the stage will be seen Arthur Hawks "Sunshine Revue," a musical comedy. Seldom is a show like this seen at the prices as given here.

A STORY OF THE SECRET SERVICE

William Fairbanks, the athletic stunt star is announced once again at the New Bijou Saturday and this time his vehicle is a thrilling story of the

Mexican border entitled, "Through Thick and Thin."

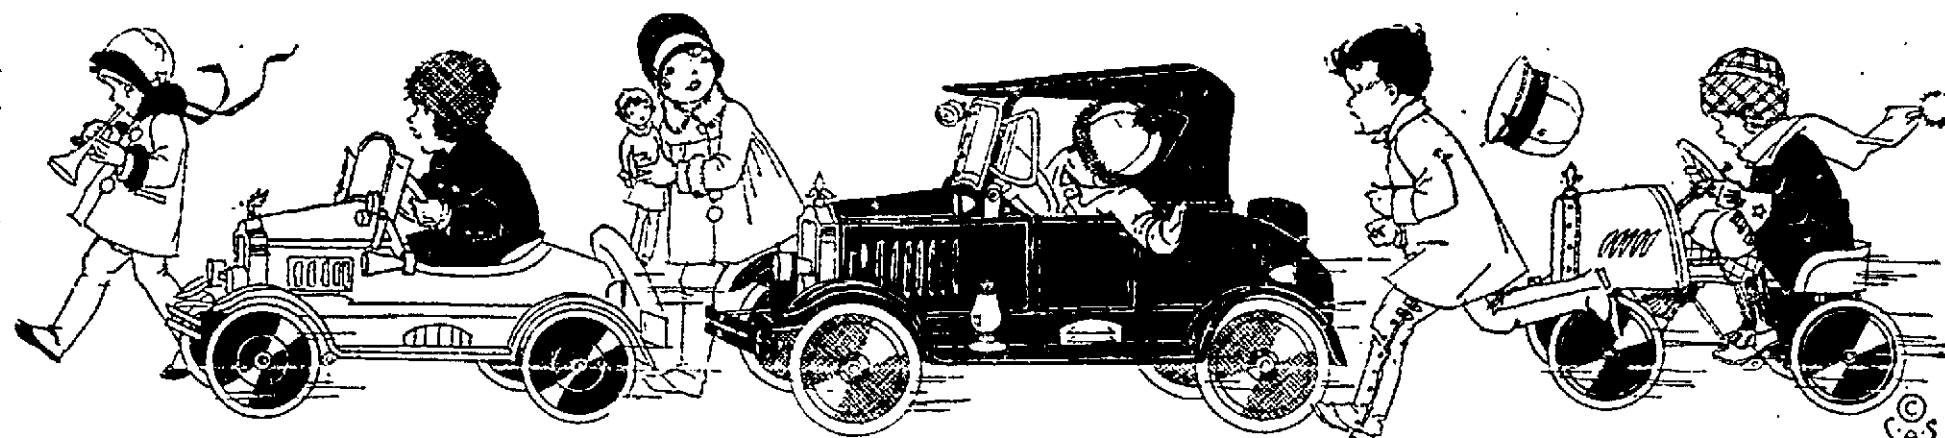

In this picture Mr. Fairbanks portrays the role of Don Davis of the Secret Service, known as "The Hawk." The Government has long tried to bend a band of drug smugglers but without success. "The Hawk" learns of the band's headquarters, a saloon just over the border in Mexico, and he goes there as a gangster. He secures a job by the simple process of bouncing the bounc-

er. While working and watching he is surprised to see a cultured gentleman, accompanied by a beautiful girl, negotiating with the leader of the band. He gets into the girl's good graces by rescuing her from a gangster and is invited to call at her home. Her father, thinking he is a gangster, orders him out, and "The Hawk," thinking the father a smuggler, decides to watch. A series of mysterious events complicate matters which come to a climax when the smugglers kidnap the girl. "The Hawk" after some clever sleuthing and hard fighting, apprehends the band and it is then a most surprising finish is uncovered.

INTERSTATE GROUP ASKS CONGRESS FOR MORE RAIL CONTROL

Commerce Commission Wants Power to Curb Projected Mergers of Road

Washington (CP)—More power to control projected consolidations of railroads was asked of congress Thursday by the Interstate Commerce commission.

In recommendations that were made a part of its annual report, the commission sought authority to compel the promoters of any given consolidation to include in their scheme such other railroads or railroad property as may be deemed likely to benefit the public service, when these can be obtained on reasonable terms.

A wide jurisdiction over consolidation projects generally was likewise requested, including elimination of that section of the present law which requires the commission to prepare a general plan by which all of the carriers in the country may be merged into nineteen or twenty major systems.

REQUIRE STEEL CARS

In connection with its general work, the commission repeated a recommendation that congress by law require railroads to use steel or steel underframe passenger cars in train service, and to forbid the inclusion of wooden-frame cars in trains consisting in part of steel cars.

Reviewing its year's work in railroad regulation, the commission began by remarking the general increase in railroad earnings.

"Since 1920, there has been a substantial increase in railway net earnings each year," the report said. "The net railway operating income of class one carriers was practically nothing in 1920; $1,121,000 in 1925; and in 1926 a further increase of 12.2 per cent appeared in the returns of the first eight months. This showing is the net result of changes within the period in volume of traffic, freight rates, in wages and in prices of material, and in other influences affecting operating expenses."

GROWTH IN INVESTMENT

"The growth in net railway operating income is accompanied by and in part dependent upon a growth in the investment. In the five-year period 1920-25 the total railway capital increased from $20,098,046.574 to $21,799,241,424. The ratio of net income, after fixed charges, to the capital stock was 5.89 per cent in 1925. This is nearly equal to the corresponding figure, 5.49 per cent for the calendar year 1926, the corresponding year for this ratio."

Since congress in 1920 authorized the commission to allow railroads to proceed with consolidation projects, the report continued, control over 31,900 miles of line has been transferred, and the question of permitting consolidations is pending as to a very large additional mileage. The merging of railroads was shown to be proceeding steadily, though in the case of two of the largest projects for merger brought before the commission, that of the Nickel Plate railroad, and of the Norfolk and Western to acquire the Virginian, the commission

THIRD GRADE PUPILS WILL SING OPERETTA

Third grade students of the Lincoln school will present a children's operetta, "A Fairy Conspiracy" at Lawrence conservatory at 7:20 Thursday evening, Dec. 16. Miss Catherine Rachman, teacher of the class, is director of the dramatic and musical work, and Miss Grace Morrison, will accompany at the piano.

Characters in the production will be: Santa Claus, William Lohr; Child, Robert Furstenberg; Cinderella, Ruth Retter; Goldenlocks, Cora Joslin; Jack the Giant Killer, Paul Reuter; Sleeping Beauty, Jean Koffend; Jack of the Beanstalk, Frederick Schreckenberg; Rose Red, Jane Gerou; Snow White, Lorraine Smith; Beauty, Mary Koffend; Beast, William Felton; Fairies, June Wilson, Jean Waltman, and Clarice Benjamin; brownies, Merlin Gerou, James Wood, Edgar Shaw, Clifford Johnston, Earl McCreedy, Byron Kohl; clowns, Marguerite Plannan, Ida Payson, Irene Miller and Irma Kanzenbach.

ORGANIZE BANKS IN TWO MORE SCHOOLS

Thrift System Adopted for Jefferson and Washington
Schools

Thrift, Inc., the school savings bank system, will be organized in the Jefferson and Washington schools in Appleton it was decided at the meeting of grade schools principals with the superintendent of schools Wednesday afternoon. The public schools now will have a uniform banking system.

Miss Ruth Russell of the service department of Thrift, Inc., was expected here Thursday or Friday to aid teachers in the bank work. She also will establish the system in the two schools.

Fire extinguishers in the grade school buildings are being filled by students of the science department of Appleton high school, it was announced. The students will continue to keep the apparatus in condition for use through the year.

Ten suggestions for prospective teachers prepared by Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, and several of the school principals were read and approved by the grade principals. It was decided to have copies of these suggestions made and distributed to all of the teachers in the city schools.

Refused to allow the consolidations to proceed.

Railroads are now required by law to pay to the government half of the excess amount they may earn above 5 1/2 per cent annually on the value of their property, and tentative audits indicate that $15,054,908 is now collectible by the treasury. However, in view of the difficulty in settling up on the valuations of railroads concerned, the report suggested that legislation to make the system workable is needed. In actuality, the government has only obtained $7,000,000 from its excess earnings claims since 1920, and this amount is being held by the government subject to final adjudications.

COVER ICY WALKS WITH ASHES, SAND

Failure to Comply With Ordinance May Result in Daily Fine of $1

Persons failing to remove ice from their sidewalks or neglecting to cover ice with snow or sand when removal is impossible are making themselves liable to a fine of $1 a day for every day they fail to comply with this ordinance, according to City Ordinance No. 2, Section 25.

The presence of ice on a walk endangers the safety of pedestrians, and although the knowledge of this fact alone should be sufficient to cause all citizens to keep their walks in a safe condition, more drastic measures were found necessary. It is pointed out by city officials. Consequently the fine was provided in the ordinance.

The ordinance also provides that sidewalks must be cleaned of snow or any refuse matter by 10 o'clock every morning. In cases where the owner of a lot adjoining a walk is not known or is not a resident of the city, the work is done by the street department and the cost for the same is made a special tax against the lot.

Ordinance No. 2, Section 25, reads: "All persons shall by 10 o'clock every morning, remove all snow, ice, dirt, rubbish or refuse matter of any kind from the sidewalk in front of

HI-Y CLUB SPONSORS MOTION PICTURE SHOW

Appleton Hi-Y club will sponsor the motion picture, "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," a comedy which will appear at Fischer's Appleton theater in two weeks, according to plans made at the regular meeting Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Manager Louis Lutz of the theatre explained the proposition. The club will receive part of the money on tickets sold by its members. The proceeds will be used to purchase a piano for the boys' department. Alex Manier is chairman of the committee in charge of the ticket sale, with Robert Eads, club treasurer, as his assistant.

The remainder of the evening was spent in work on a club discussion program based on a questionnaire of 60 topics given to the delegates to the older boys' conference.

premises owned or occupied by them; provided that when ice has so formed on any sidewalk that it cannot be removed, then the persons herein referred to, shall keep the same sprinkled with ashes or sand under a penalty of one dollar ($1) for each and every day that the same shall not be removed or sprinkled as aforesaid contrary to the provisions of this section, and in all cases where the owner of a vacant lot is not a resident of the city, said work shall be done under the direction of the street commissioner and the expense thereof made a special tax upon the lot; and it shall be the duty of the street commissioner to make complaint against all persons violating the provisions of this section."

"I Haven't A Pain In My Body Now," Says Happy Kaukauna Man

Declares Dreco routed the rheumatic pains, ended stomach distress and made him feel like another man.

"Since I started taking Dreco I haven't a pain in my body and I feel like another man," declared Mr. Leo Benotch, 300 Taylor-St., Kaukauna, Wis., while with the Dreco man at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store recently. Mr. Benotch is a well-known moulder who has a host of friends thru-out this city.

"For a long time I hardly ate a square meal a week I suffered so with indigestion and gas on the stomach afterwards. I was also a chronic sufferer from constipation, slept very poorly at night and sometimes not up many times to relieve my kidneys. But one of my worst complaints was rheumatism which caused my whole body to ache and made my back so stiff and sore it was almost impossible for me to straighten up when I bent over."

"Thanks to Dreco I can now eat what I want to without fear of indigestion. I am entirely free of the rheumatism, and when I go to bed at night I sleep like a log till it's time to get up in the morning. I can't praise Dreco too highly for the great benefits it has brought me."

Dreco is making new friends every day around here, by the way it is overcoming sickness and pains. For a sluggish liver, weak kidneys, tired nerves, overworked stomach and constipated bowels, there is no better remedy than Dreco which is made from the juices and extracts of many different herbs, barks and leaves which combine with the juices of the stomach very pleasantly, thereby producing the best results. Dreco acts quickly. It is pleasant to take and is good for old and young folks.

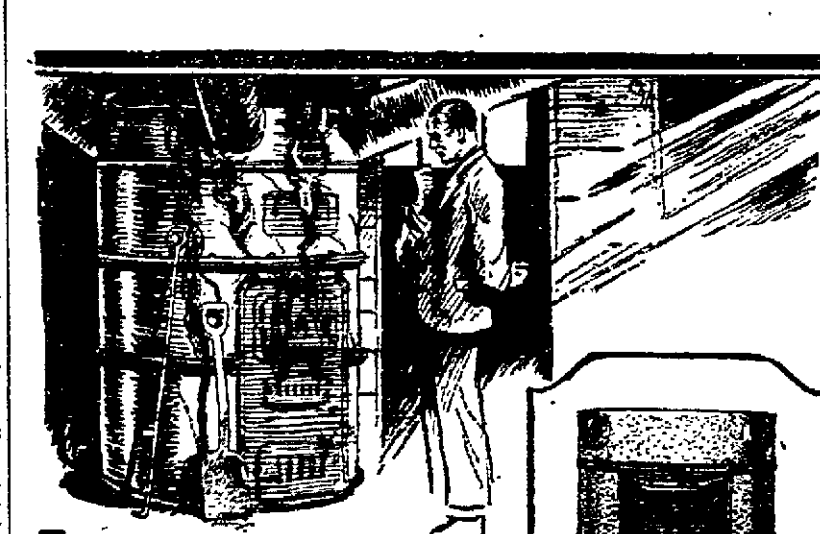

Mr. H. W. C. Marr Baker, the well-known expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

BLUE CAGEMEN SCHEDULED TO PLAY 14 HARD BATTLES

Seven Midwest conference games and five Wisconsin-Illinois battles confront Coach George Christoph's Lawrence college cagers this year, according to the schedule completed on Thursday by the Blue sport department. In the Midwest loop the Blue-men encounter Beloit, Ripon, and Coe twice and Cornell once on the Mt. Vernon floor. In the W-I circuit two games with Ripon, two with Carroll and Lake Forest at Lake Forest complete the card. Marquette is another state team on the card.

The Christophmen open the home season on either Jan. 15 or Jan. 25. Marquette is slated to play here on Jan. 15, but because of a poultry show at Armyory G, the date is tentative. The game may be transferred to Milwaukee in which case the Feb. 22 game probably would be played here.

The game may be played here on any evening from Jan. 15 to Jan. 20. If Blue authorities can secure the Armyory floor and Marquette is willing.

The first real home game brings Beloit here on Jan. 25, though many Lawrentians will follow the squad to Green Bay on Dec. 30, when it battles the Chicago "Y" M. C. A. college squad at the Bay association building. On Dec. 25, the Blue-men start their season against Chicago University at Chicago, the first Big Ten court struggle ever carded by the local school.

Beloit and Carroll play here on two successive weekends and then the Blue-men play three games away from home, clinching with Ripon, Coe and Cornell in a week. The latter two games are two weeks apart on the same jaunt into Iowa. The Blue-men return home with the Coe game here on Feb. 29 then play Marquette at Milwaukee and Ripon here. The final two games with Beloit and Carroll come on March 4 and 5 on a southern trip.

The Blue-men have the five men from the team which tripped every college team in the state last year and Marquette to take a state title, as his season's nucleus. Courtney and Ashman, regulars of that squad, will be missed as they still were eligible for competition. Zussman graduated, leaving Bries and Capt. Grove, veteran guards, as the only real vets of the team, which hits the hard 14-game schedule of which 9 battles are away from home.

Old Dartmouth Leader Criticizes Grid Game

BY BILLY EVANS

Has football in the past five years become a huge spectacle rather than a college sport?

A former Dartmouth grid captain, Parker, now an Oxford student, is of that opinion. He says he likes the English game of rugby better.

Parker stresses the point that in American football, the player is more than a mere representative of his college, rather he is a national celebrity, and must strain every effort to keep pace with his reputation.

No doubt what Parker says is true of the outstanding stars, who constantly are basking in the light of newspaper publicity, players like Grange, Oberlander and others of that ilk.

It becomes a national tragedy when one of these stars errs and thereby loses an important game. The individual himself suffers most.

However, for one fault that can be found with football, the magnitude of the game, scores of good things can be offered in rebuttal.

The immense profits of football have made possible intramural athletics on a large scale, which give to the athlete who hasn't a chance to make the varsity an opportunity to get plenty of healthful exercise and relaxation.

In addition, the football profits take care of the deficits that come up in practically every other collegiate sport with the possible exception of track.

I am against the pessimists who feel that football is being overdone. On the contrary, I feel that the im-

WOMAN HOLDS JOB WITH GRID SQUAD

"Football Dietitian" Arranges Menus for Winning Michigan Eleven

Battle Creek, Mich.—Miss Mildred Jones, 24, of Smith's Grove, Ky., probably is the first woman ever to hold an official position with a college football team in the United States.

This soft-spoken, black-eyed beauty carries the unique title of "football dietitian" at Battle Creek College. She arranges all menus for the 28 football huskies on the college squad.

Miss Smith sees that meat, coffee, tea, spices, gravies and such are barred from the menus and that protose, food ferrin, lactodextrine, vegetable and fruits are served instead. Judging from the victories of the team this year the venture has been a big success. The team won all but one game, and the last encounter was against a university eleven at the start of the season. The players were always in excellent physical condition and the team had a record of not having a man drawn from the starting lineups because of fatigue. There was no sickness on the squad all fall.

DENY LAWMAKERS' RIGHT TO SPEED

No Immunity for Legislators While Immunity Is Not in Session

Madison—(AP)—State senators and assemblymen are not exempt from arrest for speeding except during a legislative session or fifteen days before its opening or fifteen days after its close, J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general, said in an opinion here today.

Peter M. Huiaras, district attorney, Port Washington, declared that an assemblyman from Milwaukee was stopped for speeding in Port Washington and that he claimed exemption on grounds that his state office made him immune from arrest.

"The assemblyman in question is not privileged from arrest for unlawful speeding," the assistant attorney general opined, "and he is subject to arrest at this time for violation of any criminal law of which he may be guilty."

"If he was arrested for violating a city ordinance then the prosecution would be a civil case, and he would still be subject to arrest under the interpretation here given by reason of the fact that it is more than fifteen days after the close of the session and more than fifteen days before the beginning of a session."

Treason, felony and breach of peace are the only grounds for arrest of an assemblyman during the session or within the above periods, the assistant attorney general said.

Thomas A Edison's latest achievement

40 Minutes of Music on a Single Record

WHAT you once got only with a concert ticket, you can now get complete on ONE DOUBLE-FACED RECORD. You don't leave your home, nor your easy chair. No record juggling. Concert programs are given just as you might hear them in Carnegie Hall. Dinner orchestras play for you "from soup to nuts." The music, that once required a whole album of ordinary records to reproduce, is now contained complete on one New Edison 40-Minute Record. These Long-Playing records are no larger size than ordinary short-playing records. Everything that any other phonograph can give, plus the Long-Playing feature and matchless tonal quality.

With the same stroke of genius, Thomas A. Edison has also lowered the cost of phonograph music. A 5- or 6-minute, present-day record costs at least 75c. An Edison 24-Minute Record costs only $1.75 or 44 cents for six minutes of music. An Edison 40-Minute Record costs only $2.50 or 32c for six minutes of music. Edison Long-Playing Records, therefore, cut the cost of phonograph music in half.

Your Edison dealer is now giving free public 40-Minute Concerts, all day, every day. Hear this musical miracle. Write for descriptive folder.

Another "1900" WHIRLPOOL Feature The Direct Drive

No Broken Belts
No Loss of Power
Greater Safety

Thoroughly Enclosed;
A Child May Play About
The Whirlpool in Perfect Safety

Following the precedents shown by the finest automobiles—the only machines to which the "1900" Whirlpool Washer may fairly be compared—The "1900" Washer Company employs the direct drive in transmitting power from the motor to the washing mechanism.

Thus trouble with slipping belts or broken belts are wholly eliminated and power is more efficiently applied, saving cost of current, preventing loss of time and danger from tangled belts. As in a fine automobile, also, the "1900" Whirlpool washer's gears are case hardened, automatically lubricated and bearings are either Timken or babbitt throughout. Precise machining to a thousandth fraction of an inch also guarantees smooth operation and long life.

To enable the "1900" Whirlpool washer to achieve the world's record for washing speed it had to be constructed with a mechanical perfection never before seen in a washing machine. That is why engineers everywhere have been the first to praise its superiority.

The Only Washer Using a Tempered Copper Tub

Tempered copper, 18-ounce weight, is used in this machine despite the costliness of this metal because of its superior endurance. The "1900" Whirlpool tub will not bend, dent or buckle and lasts a lifetime.

Washes 8 Pounds of Clothes in 5 Minutes
The World's Record

That is the unique record attained by this remarkable washer. And it washes clean. Try collars, cuffs and all those other pieces that bring despair to the housewife. See them come out spotless. Watch them turn over, under and through the suds in constant motion. The exclusive circulator action prevents their remaining stationary and compels the world's fastest washing action.

One Hour Sufficient for Family Washing
With the Whirlpool

If you have an average family of four, the "1900" Whirlpool Washer will solve your laundry problem in an hour a week. Phone for a free demonstration and let the washer itself prove this statement to you. It costs you nothing and does not obligate you.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE JUDITH MARTIN, young teacher at Pendleton University, is admired by ERIC WATERS,
student, and DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN resents her holding aloof from the faculty group, to mingle with student radicals.

MYRA ALDRICH, from Eric's home town, is jealous of his attentions to Judith.
Judith learns of Mrs. Timothy Brown's sad story and secret love, and believing the dean a heartless traitor, befriends her.
When "KITTY" SIEVA, own
bootlegger, blackmails Mr. Brown
Judith appeals to Eric for help.
Shea tries to force an entrance into the sorority house where Judith is staying for the Christmas holidays, alone, and she shoots in the air, frightening him away.

A few days later, Shea's body is found under his car, in a crack bed. Eric is arrested, because a letter in Shea's pocket is addressed to him.

Mrs. Brown is waiting at the boarding house for Judith, and says to her, "We've GOT to save Eric."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXV

The Stedward door opened and Mr.
Stedward appeared in the doorway, looking out. She saw the group on the lower steps, then turned back,
closed the door and locked it audibly.

"Well," said Will, "she's cordial."
Judith said no word. She was idling Mrs. Brown by the arm and trying to speak.

Frudence Brown whimpered and pulled away from her. "Don't look at me like that. Don't—I tell you."

Wetherell stepped forward, and with cool, masculine assurance, took the situation in his own hands. "You two women have got to calm down," he said. "This is no life and death matter—to act so cuckoo over."

Mrs. Brown sobbed. "But perhaps it IS a life and death matter. He might be hanged!"

"Now you two listen to me," said Wetherell. "I'll take you both to some place where we can talk quietly. It won't do to solve murder mysteries on the Stedward front steps."

Judith nodded. "All right," she said, dully. But Mrs. Brown went on sobbing. "No, I won't ask any more. I haven't anything to say before a third party. I'll only talk to Judith."

Wetherell tipped his hat. "Well, then, I'll be off. But I'd advise you two to be careful how and where you talk."

Judith put her arm around Mrs.
Brown. "We'll go to the campus," she whispered. "There won't be anybody
there at this time of night."

Mrs. Brown made a heroic effort to stop crying. They hurriedly up the dark street. "Look," said Mrs. Brown suddenly. "Who is that?"

Judith looked toward the street lamp. A man with a police dog was passing under it. "It's Dorn," whispered Judith. "Pull your hat down and your collar up." The dean's wife obeyed.

Judith quickened her pace, steadying her companion with her arm.
They met Dr. Dorn just in the outer rim of the circle of light from the lamp. He raised his hat to Judith.
"How do you do, Miss Martin?" he said formally, as they passed. Judith nodded to him.

"He didn't recognize you," she whispered to Mrs. Brown a moment later. Though I suppose it wouldn't make much difference if he had."

"Oh yes," cried the dean's wife.
"My husband mustn't know I was with you tonight. Nobody must know anything I've got to work alone—with your help. Somehow, we've got to save Eric."

Judith glanced at her. "Yes," she answered quietly, "but why do you say so? You scarcely know him."

Mrs. Brown paused a moment; then,
as if catching at a straw, she said,
"How can you speak so? I have a real debt to Eric Waters. He saved me when Shea threatened to tell the dean."

Judith was pondering. "Yes," she said, "we do owe him a lot. But as matters turned out, this accident—
if accident it was—has saved you from Shea still more effectively than Eric could have done."

Mrs. Brown lifted her head. "Yes," she said. "I'm glad he's dead. I'm glad he's dead. He's dead under her back hat."

When they had come into the sunken garden near administration hall, Judith spoke. "Listen, Mrs.
Brown. The only thing you can do for Eric is to go home and sit tight till we see how things stand. You must NOT let anybody guess that Shea tried to blackmail either you or me. You must not mix us in it under any circumstances, for Eric's sake. Do you understand?"

Mrs. Brown nodded as meekly as a scolded ten-year-old.
"Now," said Judith, "what was the letter you were worried about when you called me last night?"

The dean's wife trembled. "Shea had told me that he carried with him a sealed letter to my husband, with a copy of the hotel register. Whenever I stopped giving him money,
he meant to mail it."

"Stopped giving him money?"
gasped Judith. "Did you ever do that?"

Mrs. Brown nodded. The shadow of her bit covered her face, but misery and terror were reflected in her choking voice. "Never till two days before—he was killed. When Eric talked to him, it quieted him for a while. But two days before Christmas, he came to me again, and I gave him—all I had. The house money and my allowance."

"How did you conceal it from the dean?" queried Judith.

Mrs. Brown was not listening.
"What about the letters in Shea's pocket? Have they found the one about me?" She clasped her hands.

"No," said Judith. "If there ever was such a letter, it's safe. They couldn't read any of the bunch, but Eric's. The others, on the outside of the packet, were slimy clear through."

The dean's wife pressed her hands to her temples. "What are we going to do about Eric?"

Judith shrugged her shoulders, wearily. "I don't know that we can do anything. But now we've got to go home. The dean will wonder about you."

"No, I don't think he's home yet.
He held a meeting, to lay plans for 'handling this crisis,' as he called it."

"Then he's probably on his way home. For unless I miss my guess, Dr. Peter Dorn was on his way home from that meeting when we passed him just now."

The dean's wife turned away. "I'll go now."

Judith turned toward home. She had to enter the house by using her latch key.

A light shone under the door of Miss Stedward's room in the lower hall, but no one came out to molest

her. Judith went upstairs softly.
When she opened the door of her room, she stopped to listen. Someone was sobbing on the bed. Judith switched on the light.

Myra sat up against Judith's pillows. Myra was not a frequent visitor these days. For one thing, she spent a good deal of her time at her sorority house, to which she expected to remove the next semester.
Her face was swollen and stained.
She was clutching the front page of the newspaper extra, now torn and crumpled.

Judith calmly took off her hat and coat and walked to the dresser.
Myra leaned forward, watching her,
her body tense. When Judith sat down near the table, the girl on the bed burst forth, "So that's the kind you are—pimping and fussing with your hair, when Eric's in jail for you?"

Judith grasped the edge of the table.
"For me?" Her voice was faint.

"Yes," snapped Myra. "For you and you don't even care. You're heartless and wicked. And you're as untrue to him as you were to me."

"What do you mean, Myra?"
breathed Judith. She seemed somewhat dazed by Myra's tumbled words.

"Oh, you know," moaned Myra,
relapsing into tears among the pillows. "You just don't want to understand. You can't fool me by acting dumb—like that."

Judith fingered the blotter on the table. Her eyes were wide with fear when she lifted them to Myra.

"What did you mean when you said Eric was in jail for me?"

Myra was sobbing frantically.
"Now he's in this awful mess, and even if they clear him, his name's ruined him for good. And his father!
She threatened to, twice before."

She sat up straight on the bed

again. "You don't know all I know, you see. Poor Eric is ruined with his family. They'll never forgive him for the scandal he's raised, even if he's innocent. They don't really love him. They haven't any hearts—
just pride."

Judith looked at Myra ironically.
"You weren't talking this way about Eric's mother when she entertained

you down there. I think you came in and woke me up to tell me what a lovely woman she was."

Myra tossed her head. "Don't talk nonsense, when Eric's in jail. Do something!"

Judith got up and began to pace
the room. "I don't know what to do, Myra. I'm as helpless as you.
Tell me what you meant about Eric's being in jail for me."

"Oh," Myra hung out, "if he hadn't come back to be with you, he'd have been out of danger. Shea was killed Christmas eve. Eric says he got back here next day. But he can't prove it. And it's all because of you."

Judith sat down at the table, and lifted her hand to her head. She began to rub her fingers over her temple above the left eye, while she meditated.

"Myra," she said irrelevantly,
"did you ever run into a door, so that it bruised you here?" She pointed to a spot on her forehead.

Myra stared at her. "I think you're crazy," she cried, and she made for the door.

When she was gone, Judith sat still for some time. After all sounds in the house were quiet, she got up and opened her door. Then she walked out to it slowly several times, so that the edge of the door touched her temple.

PICK COMMITTEE FOR INAUGURATION

Blaine Appoints Men Suggested by Governor-elect Zimmerman

Madison—(P)—A citizen's committee to arrange for the inaugural ceremonies January 3 was announced by Governor Blaine through his secretary, Frank W. Kuehl. The appointments were made at the request of Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, governor-elect and in compliance with his desires.

The letter to Mr. Zimmerman follows:

"This is to acknowledge your verbal request asking that the following citizens, namely, Col. Wm. J. Anderson, Mr. Wm. R. Bagley, Mr. O. D. Brandenburg, Mayor A. G. Schmiedeman, Clarence Engelbreth, Judge Charles D. Rosa, be appointed as a committee to arrange for the inaugural ceremonies on the first Monday of January next.

"You are advised that the Governor is very glad to comply with your

PANAMA GIVEN SPECIAL DELIVERY MAIL SERVICE

A special delivery service to Panama, effective at once, has been announced by the United States Postal department, according to Postmaster William Zuehlke. All articles in the regular mails may be sent special delivery upon payment of 20 cents in addition to the regular postal fee. All articles intended for this special service must be marked "Express."

request and has selected the committee according thereto.

"I am advising Col. Wm. J. Anderson of the committee so designed and requesting him to notify the other members of the committee and to select a time and place for the committee meeting.

"The committee so designed will have full charge of the inaugural ceremonies, subject to such direction as you may personally desire to make.

"If there is anything that can be done from this department that will add to the success of the inaugural ceremonies, do not hesitate in letting me know, and we will be very glad to cooperate in every possible way."

NEW SPURIOUS BILLS IN CIRCULATION, U. S. WARNS

Notice has been received at the local postoffice from the United States Treasury department of the circulation of two new counterfeit $20 bills, according to Postmaster William H. Zuehlke.

The first of the bills is of a series of 1922, check letter H, face plate No. 214 and back plate No. 22. The signatures of H. V. Speelman, register of the treasury and Frank White, treasurer, have been forged. Coarse threads have been distributed in the bill in imitation of silk fibers. This is a good counterfeit and will fool anyone who does not take care to examine his money.

The second bill also is drawn on the United States treasury, series 1922, check letter B, face plate No. 511, back plate No. 52. The names of H. V. Speelman and Frank White also are on this bill, which is a very clever deception, according to the information received. One way of distinguishing the counterfeit is by examining the lettering on the bill. The "a" in treasury has been etched like a "u" and the "n" in United States resembles an "a."

Close examination will disclose these errors and great care should be taken in accepting bills of this denomination.

SEEK COLLECTION OF GRADS' LITERARY WORK

A complete collection of all the literary works, poetry or prose, which have been published by graduates and former students of Lawrence college will be secured by the English club, a group of students on the local campus interested in the literature of the English language. The club plans this as their major project during the year.

Two autographed copies of each volume will be obtained if possible. One copy will be placed in the college library for circulation among the students, the second to be kept in the club's permanent collection.

When the collection has been made complete from the time of the founding of the college in 1847 to the present, the club will continue collecting the copies of each new work as it is published. In this way the college will have a permanent record of the literary achievements of its former students.

The population of Saloniki has grown from 175,000 to more than 500,000 in the last four years.

Diamonds in the world have a total value of $5,000,000,000, according to the recent estimate of a gem expert.

Bees and Bakeries

Honey adds much to the sum total of cookie goodness.

Honey, however, varies greatly in taste and color according to the habits and habitations of the bees which make it.

California's sunshine and flowers seem to furnish the ideal working conditions for bees.

Upon the California bees therefore, do we depend for our entire honey supply—always sure of a honey of rare flavor and delicacy.

DEER MEAT?

No, our meat is not deer or dear, it is moderately priced! The deer, at this season, will try to save themselves from the hunter's shot.

But this hunting season only comes occasionally. The all-the-year meat—the kind everyone needs and wants—the tender, juicy, luscious, health-giving Meats of satisfaction: that's the kind our customers know we cut and wrap for their appetites.

It's the year-round pleasure of serving the people—and having their confidence that we appreciate.

WHAT A HOG WAS GERTRUDE!

(Overheard By Donald Gatenon)

Andy Ames, the competent notary public and fertilizer salesman of Squash Corners, unlocked the safe and took out a stogie.

"Maybe you never heard about Wilbur Finley's hog, Gertrude."
"Gertrude suddenly got it into her head that she wanted to have a sylvan and sylphlike figure. Up to that time she was fattening nicely and, as well, on the way toward making a good hog for butchering."

"From then on she dieted and exercised. She wouldn't eat anything but lettuce and spinach. After a meal, she'd roll across the hog lot and back ten or twelve times and then stand on her hind legs and try to touch the ground with her other toes without bending her knees."

"She soon became girlishly slim, and she used to admire herself in the hog-lot pool."

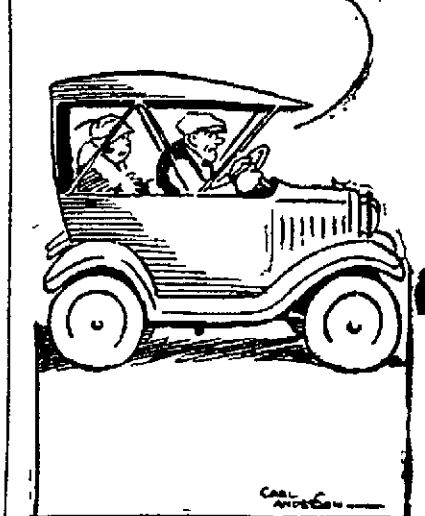

"But Wilbur didn't like it. He wanted to fatten her for fall butchering. He was about in despair when he happened to read an advertisement of some stuff that was guaranteed to make a skinny girl fat. If it would work on a human, Wilbur decided, it would work on a hog. So he got some of it, and slicked it into her daily meal of greens."

"From then on Gertrude started to pick up weight. In three weeks, she would have taken a prize at the county fair. She was so fat her legs weren't more than an inch long. Wilbur was tickled to death, but she felt bad. It was sad to see her standing, looking at her reflection in the pool, and weeping large tears down into the limpid waters."

Whether she was ashamed to be seen so stout or whether she decided that Wilbur was two-timing her I didn't know. She was not seen again. "The next spring a circus came to town. Wilbur went to see it. It was the first time he ever saw a circus. When the hippopotamus came out, he jumped up in his seat and yelled like bloody murder:

"There's Gertrude; there's my hog Gertrude! ... Pass the cider."

RAILROAD ENGINEER, IN FLAVOR, JUST PURCHASED:
"GOSH EMMA! I FEEL KINDA SCARED DRIVIN' THIS!"

Convict 1234: "What's the idea of eating so much candy?"

—Howard Burrus.

(and how some of THE FUN SHOP's contributors handled it)

Carlton: "How did the prisoner act when the governor pardoned him?"
Demorest: "He felt put out."

—Elizabeth Kevitt.

His Ruse

Rogers: "You say the prisoner went up to the warden and asked him to buy a book?"
Searler: "Yes. You see, he remembered the days when he was a salesman and he hoped the warden would kick him out."

—Doris Jean Kratzemlein.

The prisoner caught escaping is the one who makes a bad break!

Over the Mess Board

First Prisoner: "I wish I wuz a star so that I could mix wid udder planets."

Second Prisoner: "I wish I wuz a little brook so dat I could run free through de country."

Third Prisoner: "I wish I wuz jest gas."

All (in sotto voice): "GAS!"

Third Prisoner: "Yeh, 'cause' gas escapes so easily."

—Dore, the Globe Trotter.

COUNTY BOARD IN SESSION TODAY TO CORRECT TAX ERROR

Supervisors May Be Asked to Appropriate Money for Snow Removal

With important corrections to be made in the county tax budget for 1926 the county board met at 2 o'clock Friday. The possibility of adjournment before night was seen.

Repeal of the entire highway construction program, rectifying of an error in the budget involving $88,000 to be subtracted from the tax roll, and the possibility of considerable discussion on the snow removal program was the only business which it was known up to noon Friday would be brought on the floor.

That a resolution calling for a large appropriation to the general fund which could later be transferred to the highway account to allow new construction to go on unhampered during 1927 seemed to be the solution of the problem facing the supervisors in trying to reduce the budget to stay within the Camille tax limit, it was reported.

It also was expected that a resolution seeking an appropriation of $5,000 to keep highways open would be introduced. Considerable sentiment favoring snow removal from county roads has developed during the recent storm period and it was believed such a proposal would meet with considerable support.

The county was pointed out, has modern equipment for snow removal but no funds to man it.

In the absence of J. E. Doerfler, supervisor from Kimberly, M. H. Kettenhofer was to act as representative. Mr. Doerfler is in Canada on business.

Whether any attempt would be made to transfer any routine board business at this time could not be learned but indications were Friday morning that the meeting would be devoted exclusively to the more important business outlined.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Probably fair tonight and Saturday, except some cloudiness; colder Saturday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is high from Texas to Oregon this morning, with fair weather, and low in the east and north, with rains or snows over the eastern states. A center of low pressure north of Lake Superior is causing cloudiness over the Great Lakes region, but is too far north to cause snow here. The weather is expected to remain generally fair in this section tonight and Saturday. Temperatures are above normal over the northern states but there may be somewhat of a drop as the pressure rises.

TOO MUCH SICKNESS, CAN'T GIVE PROGRAMS

No Christmas programs have been planned by the classes at the Franklin grade school this year because of the number of pupils absent. Mrs. Selma Abendroth, principal, announced. Contagious disease among the children has prevented arrangements, because often children would be assigned to parts, and then be absent from rehearsals.

Parties will be given in each room the last Friday afternoon before vacation, Dec. 24, the principal said. Christmas trees, gifts, Santa Claus and other holiday plans will be arranged.

What's the Use of Crying Pal of My Lonesome Hours

Lee Sims

Another great record by Lee Sims, who is now known as the versatile pianist and master of modulations. Sims has developed a style of playing the piano so completely his own that recently when broadcasting over the air, his identity was concealed and he was announced only as "Mr. X." Listeners of the station program were asked to guess his identity and out of 2,037 replies, 2,004 were correct. On this record, Sims plays the very appealing "WHAT'S THE USE OF CRYING" and Lyman's sentimental song, "PAL OF MY LONESOME HOURS."

Come Into My Heart In the Heart of the Hills

Allen McQuhae

The fine voice of Allen McQuhae has been heard so frequently in concert programs over the radio that he has earned a national popularity. The song is a very appealing one and is sung in splendid voice. The coupling is a ballad by Logan, "COME INTO MY HEART."
